Chapter 13: Air, Water and Weather

1. Rearrange the sentences in correct order to show the formation of land and sea breeze.

- The air above the land is warmer so it rises up.
- Thus, the sea breeze blows during the day.
- During the day, the land gets heated up more than the water in the sea.
- Cool air from the sea blows to take its place.

- The cool air over land rushes in to take its place.
- At night, the land cools down faster than the water in the sea.
- Thus, the land breeze blows during the night.
- The warm air above the water rises up.
- So the water is warmer than the land.
